Kaggle is home to thousands of free data sets that you can use for training your machine learning models. And you can even upload and download your own data sets. Kaggle has been a place for data scientists and developers to share and learn from each other. You can now submit your own Kaggle notebooks to the site. The Kaggle notebook store is an open source repository for pre-built machine learning notebooks that you can use to run your data sets. In the past, the only way to use notebooks was through the Kaggle Labs platform, which you could only access through Kaggle Premium. But now they have opened up access to notebooks to everyone. This means you can create Kaggle notebooks that share workflows to run your data sets. Create your own machine learning notebooks with Python | Python is a powerful and popular programming language. It is used in big data, scientific computing, and more. If you're a data scientist or developer who has a lot of Python code, you can now share that code

I know this photo is a bit uninspiring but I couldn't resist sharing a bit of our favorite features about our brand new duvet cover. The duvet cover is from Sertani by PrimaLoft® which is the only duvet cover available with a blanket stitch detailing. The blanket stitch detail on the duvet cover is gorgeous and helps to provide extra comfort and warmth. The cover also has a 6-inch extension on the sides for easy access to the pocket and sham. In addition, the duvet cover has a beautiful embroidered bird on the front. It's been the perfect accent to our duvet and pillows. Plus, they keep the duvet in great condition and are very easy to care for. I dunno.... it would've been nice to see him not with the presser room, but then he has literally been in it at least every single time since his stroke. Maybe he felt like it was more therapeutic to be in a smaller environment? It 82157476af
